Institute of Community Health Nursing, National Yang-Ming University, Taipei, Republic of China.

The goal of International Perspectives is to share the views of nurse leaders, from countries other than the United States, on global healthcare issues. The focus is on identifying healthcare management problems and their implications, research priorities, policy development, and ethical-moral dilemmas faced by nurse administrators. You are encouraged to send the names and addresses of international nurse leaders who might be interested in participating, as well as your ideas for format and content of the department.
