

Concomitant fracture of the coracoid and acromion after direct shoulder trauma

陳啓仁

Lim KE;Wang CR;Chin KC;Chen CJ;Tsai CC;Bullard

MJ

摘要

Abstract

Fractures of the acromial process or coracoid process of the scapula are rare. We present a combined fracture of the coracoid and acromion after direct trauma to the shoulder. An anteroposterior radiography with the central x-ray beam angled 25 degrees cephalad or an axillary lateral radiograph may be needed to detect these fractures