

Teardrop Bladder

江漢聲

Chen K.C.;Ho M.H.;Chiang H.S.

摘要

Abstract

Urology A descriptor for a markedly distended urinary bladder in which a trauma-induced hematoma surrounds the bladder base, lifting it out of the pelvis; external pressure narrows the bladder neck into an attenuated 'stem,' while a broad base at the bladder's apex imparts a piriform configuration by excretory urography Etiology Trauma, pelvic lipomatosis, inferior vena cava occlusion, psoas muscle hypertrophy, rarely, pelvic lymphadenopathy