

Tailored syringes as "Bridging Skeleton" in delayed sternal closure of complex congenital heart operation

陳大樑

Chen YS;Chiu IS;Wang MJ;Chen TL;Huang FL;Chu SH

摘要

Abstract

We propose a new technique using trimmed plastic syringes as a "bridging skeleton" in delayed sternal closure for complex congenital heart surgery. The technique achieves at low cost good stability and the necessary compliance vital for ultimate survival.