S 16*Chii-Ruey Tzeng

*Dean, College of Medicine, Professor and Chairman,
Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology
Taipei Medical University, Taiwan*

Professor Tzeng is currently Dean of College of Medicine at Taipei Medical University (TMU) since 2004, and chairman of Obstetrics and Gynecology at TMU since 1992. He graduated from the School of Medicine at Taipei Medical University from 1969 to 1976 and later obtained the master degree of Public Health in Maternal and Child Health from Harvard School of Public Health from 1980 to 1981. He completed his fellowship training in Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at Brigham and Women's Hospital which is affiliated to Harvard Medical School from 1981 to 1983. Prof. Tzeng has undertaken two pioneering works in Taiwan, the first Test Tube baby in 1985 and the first Mitochondria Transfer in 2002, respectively.

Prof. Tzeng has been received numerous honors and awards such as Prize Poster Awards of Annual Meeting of European Society of Human Reproduction & Embryology (ESHRE) both in Switzerland (2001) and in Spain (2003); also the Prize Poster Awards of the 4th Conference of the Pacific Rim Society for Fertility and Sterility (PRSFS) in Japan, 2004. He was President of the Taiwan Society for Reproductive Medicine from 1996-1998. He served the Board of Organization Committee in 1996 of the Pacific Rim Society for Fertility and Sterility in Hawaii, then in 2002, he was further committed to organize the 3rd Conference of The Pacific Rim Society for Fertility and Sterility (PRSFS) in Taipei. Lately, he was appointed to serve in the Board of Advisory Committee for The International Ovarian Conference in Japan in 2004 and 2005.

As Prof. Tzeng is free, he enjoys to be engaged in arts, architecture, reading, oil painting collection and internet for updated information. He is the counselor of Taipei Sinfornietta and Philharmonic Orchestra (the leading orchestra in Taiwan). For him, time is never enough. Nevertheless, he always can make the best use of it.
