

臺北醫學大學 102 學年度碩士班暨碩士在職專班入學考試

英文試題

本試題第 1 頁；共 4 頁
(如有缺頁或毀損，應立即請監試人員補發)

答
注
意
事
項

- 一、本試題共三大題，共計 100 分。
- 二、請將最適當的答案依題號作答於考試答案卡上。
- 三、試題答錯者不倒扣；題次號碼錯誤或不按順序或鉛筆作答，不予計分。

I. Sentence Completion (2% each, 40% in total)

- Studies show that those constantly exposed to second-hand smoke are just as _____ lung disease as smokers are.
susceptible to concerned about addicted to aware of
- Everyone is drawn to his easygoing _____.
temptation temperament temperature tedium
- I hope that my children will learn to feel _____ for those less fortunate than them.
comparison disappointment impression sympathy
- That's the lawyer for _____ Mandy used to work.
whom which who that
- Joe is a really creative fashion designer. He can always be relied on to _____ new ideas.
face up to put up with come up with draw to
- Sometimes I get sick of studying, but I know it will be _____ it in the end.
useful good worthwhile worth
- _____ did he know that we were watching his every move.
A few Few Little A little
- The idea _____ has never crossed my mind.
that I should give him up whether I should give him up which I should give him up if I should give him up
- X-rays showed that John's broken leg _____ very quickly.
cures is healed was healing were curing
- The nation was unable to _____ the invasion from its neighboring country.
withstand submit obey persuade
- I just had a nice long sleep, so I am _____ tired.
more than not in the least at least not all
- Mr. Anthony, _____, is going to retire next month.
is the principal of the school that is the principal of the school which is the principal of the school the principal of the school
- Pick _____ five you like. They are five for NT$100.
some any all enough
- Everyone loves attending Mr. Wallace's art course because it is always illustrated _____ interesting pictures and funny stories.
for with through by
- Being aware of possible risks and knowing how to invest your money wisely _____ the keys to long-term financial wealth.
are is to be being
- Our hotel room in Moscow was _____ after the heater broke during the snowstorm.
cozy spacious frigid restive

臺北醫學大學 102 學年度碩士班暨碩士在職專班入學考試

英文試題

本試題第 2 頁；共 4 頁
(如有缺頁或毀損，應立即請監試人員補發)

17. Scientists have developed a new ____ of honeybee that produces triple the honey.
hive flock yield strain
18. A special TV news investigation ____ that Mayor Bill Jones didn't pay taxes last year.
excised deducted subverted revealed
19. Ellen wore blue jeans to our firm's ____ dinner, so the boss made her go home and change.
formal delicious casual informal
20. My neighbor and I are having a dispute over where the ____ lies between our two yards.
litigation concession boundary architecture

II. Cloze (2% each, 40 % in total)

(A) Questions 21-25

Getting around big cities is often a problem, and Taipei is (21) different. Before the Taipei Mass Rapid Transit (MRT) (22), it was even more difficult. Cars, taxis, buses and motorcycles all competed (23) the roads and if you wanted to get about, you had no other option. Not many people bicycle in Taipei; it's too (24) for that. But thanks to the MRT, commuters have another choice of transport. However, the typhoon in September 2001 (25) flooding in the MRT, which meant some of it was closed for a few weeks. This made people remember life before it; they were glad when the trains were running again.

21. always no usually very
22. is built built to build was built
23. over with on across
24. dangerously dangerous dangers danger
25. caused made led result

(B) Questions 26-30

Maokong, a tourist attraction near Taipei, is famous for its fascinating tea culture and scenery. It is located on the southwest side of Gatou Mountain, overlooking Taipei. There are many teahouses in Maokong and (26) of them has developed its own unique tea tasting ceremony. People love to get together in these teahouses no matter (27) it's day or night. In the daytime, the sight of green tea (28) on the surrounding hills boosts people's spirits and relaxes their minds. Many local residents also like to visit the place during the day by hiking along the mountain (29) and footpaths. As evening approaches, (30), colorful lights are lit in front of every teahouse turning Maokong into a magical world. In the future, if you have the chance to visit Maokong, don't forget to order a pot of tea, take a lazy stroll along the mountain paths, and enjoy the incredible views.

26. each many both some
27. which when that if
28. which was grown was grown growing grows
29. tray trails roots avenue
30. that is to say on the other hand for this reason above all

(C) Questions 31-35

People seem to be using smart-phones everywhere today, and live theater performances are no (31) to this trend. In the past five years, as texting and phone calls have increased during performances, arts organizations have (32) with how to deal with this digital invasion. A major problem has been the (33) that gadget usage causes during operas, plays, symphonies and musicals. With phone users sprinkled throughout the audience, non-users were getting (34) by the movements and screen lights. But now, many theaters have introduced "Tweet seats", named for the patrons who like to live-tweet their insights about the show on Twitter.

Most of the tweet seats are located in the first two rows of the theater, which (35) all of the digital activity. Thus, the only people the tweeters are disturbing are other tweeters. And these tweeters must follow strict instructions, like turning phones to silent-mode and not having conversations.

臺北醫學大學 102 學年度碩士班暨碩士在職專班入學考試

英文試題

本試題第 3 頁；共 4 頁
(如有缺頁或毀損，應立即請監試人員補發)

- | | | | |
|------------------|-------------|--------------|-------------|
| 31. admission | conversion | exception | perception |
| 32. qualified | struggled | obligated | restrained |
| 33. distractions | retractions | contractions | attractions |
| 34. surveyed | displaced | intervened | annoyed |
| 35. centralizes | integrates | eradicates | mobilizes |

(D) Questions 36-40

There's a special kind of (36) at Duke University Medical Center — "hair care", courtesy of Jacques Shy. A longtime hairdresser on disability, Shy visited the hospital six years ago to fix the hair of an ailing friend. While he was there, families of other patients asked Shy to perform the same service for their bedridden relatives. Soon he was informally visiting the hospital five days a week, (37) with him an inflatable sink to wash hair, and his bag of styling tools.

Hospital officials saw the magic of Shy's service, and granted him (38) to work with patients, doctors and nurses. Shy brings laughter to the rooms, which studies have shown helps patients recover faster. Not only does Jacques make patient's hair look better, but he also (39) in medical care. Doctors often ask him to bathe incisions on patient's heads to prevent (40), and massage scalps of cancer patients.

- | | | | |
|-------------------|------------|--------------|-------------|
| 36. surgery | insurance | therapy | operation |
| 37. inviting | delving | hauling | floating |
| 38. authorization | graduation | invalidation | legislation |
| 39. reimburses | subsists | mitigates | partakes |
| 40. conception | infection | prognosis | diagnosis |

III. Reading Comprehension (2% each, 20 % in total)

People often make ambitious New Year's resolutions, but give up on them within weeks. Dieting and exercise are popular resolutions, but experts advise thinking small when setting goals.

Many people want to lose weight, but having a goal of shedding 60 pounds in six months may not be pragmatic. Extreme dieters often go on starvation diets to reach goals quickly, but this can lead to a lack of proper nutrition, which weakens the immune system and invites illness. Nutrition experts advise that dieters follow a prescribed diet, and set petite goals, like losing one pound a week. This type of dieting creates the habit of healthy eating that can become permanent.

Exercise resolutions also carry the danger of excessive ambition. Many people spend big money on gym memberships and exercise equipment, but frequently abandon both in a month or two, resulting in wasted investments. If you're sedentary, don't plan on running a marathon next month. Physical trainers say adding daily activity such as walking to work or using the stairs instead of the elevator prepare people for greater exercise levels. When you do start a regular exercise schedule, write down what you do in order to track your progress.

41. What is a benefit of setting small weight-loss goals?

- You can wear the same clothes longer.
- You save money by not buying diet books.

- Eating properly becomes a way of life.
- Dieters can still eat all the foods they like.

42. What happens with most resolutions?

- People write them down as a reminder.
- Most people stick with them for six months.

- Friends and family keep asking about them.
- They are abandoned in a short period of time.

43. According to the reading, how do people lose money with resolutions involving exercise?

- Buying equipment they stop using.
- Joining expensive golf and tennis clubs.

- Hiring coaches to teach them sports.
- Purchasing designer exercise attire.

44. What is a consequence of trying to lose too much weight too quickly?

- Dieters lose more weight than they planned.
- People run the risk of easily becoming sick.

- Nutritionists are overworked creating diets.
- Dieters must then set a new resolution.

45. What is a good way to ramp up to a more intense exercise routine?

Start running one mile a day for a week.

Join a gym and begin weightlifting every day.

Go for a stroll after dinner in a nearby park.

Hire a coach to train you for a marathon.

Email, which was invented in 1965 as an efficient tool for transmitting the written word, may be nearing extinction because it has ironically become inefficient. When email became popular for the masses in the mid-90's, it functioned as a platform to exchange information and ideas. People would receive a few emails at work or from friends, and they could easily manage their Inbox. Today, Inboxes have become loaded with all sorts of spam, phishing scams and malicious code that gobble up time and spread viruses to computers. Sifting through and reading email often consumes an hour or more each day, dramatically lowering employee productivity.

Even legitimate work emails have become time-consuming burdens. In the corporate world, emails are often sent to groups, generating multiple replies, resulting in email chains that can last for days — without resolving the issue discussed. Many business people today find they can eliminate this problem with a short phone call or meeting — precisely the things email promised to replace.

Paradoxically, as email nears extinction, the number of emails sent daily is skyrocketing — most of them junk mail. One solution companies are exploring is enterprise social networking; Facebook-like networks with restricted user lists, which exclude unauthorized emails.

46. According to the reading, what happens with many business-relevant emails?

They are mistaken for useless emails.

They often get sent to the wrong people.

They turn into long emails with many replies.

They get printed out and are sent in the mail.

47. According to the passage, why is the amount of email transmitted each day dramatically rising?

People are sending more photos and videos.

Facebook notifications now fill many Inboxes.

Ads and junk mail have dramatically risen.

More people in the world have computers.

48. Why was email attractive to users when it first became widespread?

Printed text could be exchanged quickly.

Companies could use it to assign more work.

Marketers were able to send mass mailings.

People could use smart-phones for email.

49. Why are some firms considering in-house social networks to replace email?

Millions of people are familiar with Facebook.

As a way to include their remote employees.

They are an efficient way to market products.

Staff can communicate quickly and securely.

50. How do many people deal with today's email inefficiencies?

They delete most of the emails they receive.

They call or meet with the relevant parties.

They have gone back to writing letters.

They use tools like Twitter and Instant Messaging.